The Office of the Inspector General of the Intelligence Community Completes Review of ODNI's Compliance with Executive Order 13950, Combating Race & Sex Stereotyping

(January 2021) The Office of the Inspector General of the Intelligence Community (IC IG) completed a Review of ODNI Compliance with Executive Order 13950, Combating Race & Sex Stereotyping, in December 2020 (INS-2021-003).

On September 22, 2020, President Donald J. Trump signed Executive Order 13950, with the stated goal to "promote economy and efficiency in Federal contracting, to promote unity in the Federal workforce, and to combat offensive and anti-American race and sex stereotyping and scapegoating."

On December 10, 2020, the Director of National Intelligence (DNI) requested that the IC IG review and assess by the end of the calendar year, and annually thereafter, the Office of the Director of National Intelligence's (ODNI) compliance with the requirements of Executive Order 13950.

In response to the DNI's request made pursuant to § 6(c)(ii) of Executive Order 13950, the IC IG conducted its review and determined that ODNI is currently in compliance with all but one applicable provision and has initiated action to comply with the remaining provision.

The IC IG simultaneously submitted this report to the Office of Management and Budget in accordance with § 6(c)(ii) of the Executive Order and pursuant to the DNI's request.
